Medical Assessment

The patient presented to the emergency room with severe abdominal pain. Upon further examination, it was discovered that the patient had suffered a perforated bowel, requiring immediate surgery to repair the damage. The procedure was successful and the patient is expected to make a full recovery.

The patient is being monitored closely for any signs of infection, as well as for signs of intestinal obstruction. The patient is being advised to follow a clear liquid diet and to avoid strenuous activity in the coming weeks. Follow-up appointments with the surgeon and the primary care physician are being scheduled to ensure ongoing recovery. The patient is being educated on proper postoperative care, including wound care, hygiene, and pain management. The patient is also being referred to a nutritionist to ensure proper nutrition and to avoid constipation.

Treatment Plan

The patient is also being referred to a physical therapist to facilitate a safe return to their previous level of activity. The patient is being provided with contact information for the surgeon and the primary care physician, as well as information on any available support groups.
